Skills developed in college

You've developed a range of skills through your education, work experience and personal interests and achievements.

Understanding what skills you have to offer and like to use can help you understand what you want in a career, as well as providing key information for job or further study applications.

In terms of securing a job, academic qualifications alone will not guarantee success. Evidence-based skills sections on your CV can demonstrate the broad range of qualities you have to offer employers.

Below are some of the main skills you may have developed while in college:

- Strong technical knowledge and expertise
  Has experience of using modern technology. Develops and maintains a knowledge of key trends in technology. Keeps up to date with developments in own areas of professional specialisation. Applies a breadth and/or depth of professional knowledge.

- Problem-solving ability
  Identifying, prioritising and solving problems, individually or in groups; the ability to ask the right questions, sort out the many facets of a problem, and contribute ideas as well as answers regarding the problem. Solve business problems, often on the basis of limited and possibly contradictory information.

- Analytical thinking
  Analyse and interpret data and, when necessary, design experiments to gain new data; design a system, component or process to meet a need.

- Excellent communication skills, both oral and written
  Expresses ideas effectively and conveys information appropriately and accurately. Influences others by expressing self effectively in a group and in one to one situations. Shows by a range of verbal and nonverbal signals that the information being received is understood.

- Teamwork / Working with Others
  Builds and develops appropriate relationships with academic staff, peers, colleagues, customers and suppliers at all levels within an organisation.

- Time-management skills / ability to meet deadlines
  Managing several tasks at once; being able to set priorities and to allocate time efficiently in order to meet deadlines.

- Planning and Organising
  Establishes a course of action for self and/or others to accomplish a specific goal. Plans proper assignments of personnel and appropriate allocation of resources.

- Leadership skills
  Takes responsibility for the directions and actions of a team.

- Creativity & Innovation
  Creative and innovative in solving problems. Generates and/or recognises how best practice and imaginative ideas can be applied to different situations.

- Attention to Detail
  Accomplishes tasks through a concern for all areas involved, no matter how small.

- Initiative & self-management
  Identifies opportunities and is proactive in putting forward ideas and potential solutions. Self-disciplined and self-motivated in the pursuit of their studies and professional practice.

- Flexibility & Adaptability
  Maintains effectiveness in a changing environment.

- Commercial awareness
  Understands the economics of the business. Understands the business benefits and commercial realities from all stakeholder perspectives (customer, supplier, employer, employee, shareholder etc.

- Ability to make quick decisions / work under pressure
  Makes decisions and takes action. Maintains performance under pressure and / or opposition.

- IT / Technology Skills ( MS Office, SPSS)
  Use a wide range of tools, techniques and equipment, including relevant software; use laboratory and workshop equipment to generate valuable data.

- Financial Awareness
  Understands basic financial terminology used in organisations and is able to construct and maintain simple financial records.

You may also have built up other specific course / technical skills.
Types of employers/industry sectors

Some of the main types of employers/industry sectors in which Business Studies graduates work include:

A Business Studies degree prepares you for a career stretching across any sector or industry. Career options are varied. Decide on the area you want to work in and try to get relevant work experience in the form of a structured work placement, part-time job, voluntary work or work shadowing. Use this experience to develop your skills further and to establish contacts within the industry.

Industries as diverse as retail, finance, ICT, utilities, fashion, health, and construction all require functional managers with a clear understanding of systems, efficiency and operational issues. Opportunities exist in management and analyst roles with employers in the private, public and voluntary sectors.

Graduate training schemes offered by large employers frequently focus on ‘commercial’ roles and may be of interest to business studies graduates. Many give experience in several departments but others encourage specialisation from the outset. These recruitment schemes are advertised in directories available free from your careers service as well as online.

*adapted from www.prospects.ac.uk

Careers open to all disciplines
(Including ‘Paths Into…’ Series)

Many graduate vacancies don't require specific degree subjects as possession of a degree is taken as evidence of intellectual ability. What is more important to the potential employer is the range of transferable skills and experience you can demonstrate.

Many graduate training programmes take final year students from a wide range of disciplines, register with the Career Development Centre's Jobsence for a full list of programmes. Here is a range of career areas that are potentially open to graduates of all disciplines. It's important to note that some of these options may require further study either on the job or beforehand.

If you are considering diversifying or changing career direction a postgraduate conversion course may be a viable option.

Some examples of career areas open to students of all disciplines:

- Teaching & Education
- Financial Services & Accounting
- Marketing, Advertising and PR
- Retail, Sales and Customer Service
- Banking, insurance and financial services
- Charities and voluntary sector
- Fund management / administration and investment banking
- Human resources, recruitment and training
- Management consulting
- Management, business and administration
- Media and publishing
- Public sector and civil service
- Social, community and youth

For further information see: www.gradireland.com/career-sectors

Further Study

Are you considering further study or training? See www.tudublin.ie/careers for comprehensive information

Some examples of further study programmes undertaken by Business Studies graduates:

- MSc Strategic Management, TU Dublin, Smurfit
- PG Dip Accounting, TU Dublin
- MA PR, TU Dublin
- MSc Digital Marketing, TU Dublin, Smurfit
- MSc Finance, TU Dublin, Smurfit
- MSc Property Studies, TU Dublin
- MSc International Business, TU Dublin, Smurfit
- E-Commerce, DCU
- International Relations, DCU

Conversion courses

Some graduates find that their primary degree did not meet their expectations, either vocationally, academically or personally, and seek change career direction. Conversion courses offer the opportunity to diversify into another chosen career area while meeting the necessary entry requirements for that discipline. However, it should be noted that this is not the case for all disciplines e.g. disciplines such as science and engineering will require an undergraduate degree in that discipline.
Self Employment

Ever thought of being your own boss? Think you have an innovative product or service idea that could have commercial value? Want to commercialise your research? See www.tudublin.ie/careers

Other Options (e.g. Time out, travel etc.)

Volunteering and working with communities with is a great way to gain valuable real world experience, to develop new skills, to meet new people, to do something worthwhile and to improve your employability. For more details, see www.tudublin.ie/careers.
